

Social Dispositions

What are they?

- Social dispositions are the foundations upon which high character is built. Through teaching and coaching, we together are able to extend knowledge and growth far beyond that of a textbook. Qualities such as honesty, empathy, leadership, integrity, respect, and countless others provide young men and women with the ability to impact the world around them for the better.

How will they be presented?

- A new social disposition will be introduced at the beginning of each week. Students will be encouraged to collaboratively build a working definition of each disposition and will be given ample opportunities to demonstrate through various forms school work.

Will students be tested over social dispositions?

- Knowledge and application of social dispositions will be tested and quizzed throughout the year. They are to be thought of as being just as important as what is learned through coursework. Due to the collaborative nature of how the dispositions are learned and applied, students will consistently be tested over their own definition and applications.
